Satellite mpr relocates to Arundel

The successful, London-based marketing and PR agency, Satellite mpr, has now relocated to the picturesque market town of Arundel in West Sussex.

It was not a difficult decision to leave the city and set up in Arundel. This small and friendly market town, set between the South Downs and the South Coast, simply lends itself to creative thought and networking. The area also offers a great potential for services in hospitality and environmental development, which are among the specialist fields covered by Satellite mpr.

Satellite's existing London clients will still receive the same dedicated service.

Claire Lalaguna comments, "A direct train route to London means we are not far away and it's business as usual!"
